A person who holds a temporary license issued under this section may not practice genetic counseling unless the person is always under the supervision and direction of a genetic counselor or physician while the person is practicing genetic counseling.

TEMPORARY LICENSE APPLICATION INFORMATION (Wis. Stat. § 448.9705 and Wis. Admin. Code § Gen Couns 2.02) (Wis. Admin. Code § Gen Couns 2.02 is currently available in an administrative emergency rule, EmR2313.)

A person granted a temporary license to practice genetic counseling under Wis. Stat. § 448.9705 must practice at all times under the supervision and direction of a licensed genetic counselor or physician.

- A temporary license application described here is optional and can be submitted in LicenseE after your LicenseE application for a full, permanent, genetic counselor license has been submitted.
- A temporary license described here is only available to those applicants applying for a full, permanent genetic counselor license via the Exam method.
- The temporary license described here, once granted, allows an applicant for full genetic counselor licensure the opportunity to practice while scheduled to take an exam under Wis. Stat. § 448.9704\(1\)\(d\)2. It cannot be granted until all other requirements (except the exam requirement) have been met.
- The temporary license described here expires upon granting of a license under Wis. Stat. § 448.9704\(1\) or on whichever of the following dates occurs first:
  - One year after the date on which the temporary license was granted.
  - Thirty days after the American Board of Genetic Counseling examination results are issued.

Note: The Wisconsin Genetic Counselors Affiliated Credentialing Board may, in its discretion and only once, renew a temporary license issued to a person under this section, for a period specified by the board, if the person maintains active candidate status with the American Board of Genetic Counseling. The board may require an applicant for the renewal of a temporary license to appear before a member of the board for an interview
